Good day:

RE: Notice of determination

We are writing about your eligibility for the disability tax credit (DTC).

Please keep this letter for your records as it contains important information about DTC eligibility and any future T2201, Disability Tax Credit Certificate requirements, if applicable.

We have completed our review and determined that you are eligible for the DTC for the 2019 to 2029 tax year(s).

You may be entitled to claim the disability amount on your income tax return for these years.

To claim the Disability Tax Credit you must enter the disability amount on your tax return on line 31600 for self for each year you are entitled to claim. For more information on how to claim or transfer the Disability Tax Credit, please refer to the attached information sheet.

We sent the adjustment request to the appropriate section of our office. See the attached fact sheet for more information.

Eligibility for the DTC also allows individuals to access related programs such as the Registered Disability Saving Plan. See the attached fact sheet for more information.

You will have to file a new, fully completed Form T2201, Disability Tax Credit Certificate, for the 2030 tax year or earlier if we ask for one, so we can review eligibility for the DTC.

We invite you to fill out an online survey so we can see how much you know about the disability tax credit, as well as if you were satisfied with the application process. Your participation is voluntary, and the survey will take about 10 minutes. Your answers will remain confidential and anonymous. Please go to canada.ca/dtc-survey to start the survey.

Sincerely,

N. Glaveen

Adjustment request sent to the appropriate section of our office

Our T1 adjustment department will let you know when they have finished their review. Disability tax credit adjustment requests are usually completed within 8 weeks of the date of the notice of determination. However, some requests are considered complex and can take up to 20 weeks to process. These include situations where more information or verification is needed. We want to assure you that processing the request is a priority.

We can only consider adjustment requests for tax years ending in any of the 10 calendar years before the year you make a request.

REGISTERED DISABILITY SAVINGS PLAN (RDSP) INFORMATION

A registered disability savings plan (RDSP) is a long-term savings plan that helps Canadians with a disability save for the future.

To help an eligible beneficiary (person with a disability) save, the Government of Canada will deposit money into the beneficiary's RDSP in the form of a grant or a bond, up to and including the year in which the beneficiary turns 49 years old.

The Government will deposit a bond of up to $1,000 per year into the RDSP of a low- or modest-income beneficiary, to a maximum of $20,000 over the beneficiary's lifetime. No personal contributions are needed to receive the bond.

In addition, the Government will deposit a grant of up to three times the amount of money someone contributes to the RDSP. The grant is up to $3,500 per year, to a maximum of $70,000 over the beneficiary's lifetime.

If a beneficiary has been approved for the disability tax credit for previous years, they may still be able to get the bonds and grants missed for those years. To be eligible for this, an RDSP must be opened, and contributions made, before the end of the year the beneficiary turns 49.

Contact a participating financial organization to ask about opening an RDSP. For more information on the grant and the bond, and a list of financial organizations that offer RDSPs, please visit canada.ca/RDSP or call 1-800-O-Canada (1-800-622-6232). For TTY service, call 1-800-926-9105.

More Information

You can find our forms at canada.ca/cra-forms or call 1-800-959-8281 to order them.

You can claim any fees a medical practitioner charges to fill out Form T2201 or to give us more information as medical expenses. See line 33099(330) of the Federal Income Tax and Benefit Guide.

For general information about this credit, go to canada.ca/disability-tax-credit.

If there are changes and you believe you or your dependant are no longer eligible for the Disability Tax Credit (DTC) contact the CRA and let us know.

If you are moving or have moved recently

Update your address using one of the options available at canada.ca/cra-change-address.

If you would like to claim the disability amount on your return

- You must enter the disability amount on the appropriate line on your tax return(s) and file a return for any unfiled tax years.
- Go to canada.ca/change-tax-return for faster service, or
- Send us a completed Form T1-ADJ, T1 Adjustment Request, or a letter with the details of the request to the tax centre shown on this notice. Include your social insurance number. Do not include this notice of determination in your adjustment request

The CRA can only consider claims for the disability amount within the last 10 calendar years.

For more information on how to claim or transfer the Disability Tax Credit please go to: Canada.ca/en/revenue-agency/services/tax/individuals/segments/tax-credits-deductions-persons-disabilities/disability-tax-credit/claiming-dtc.html.

The disability amount is a non-refundable tax credit that reduces the amount of tax you owe. If the total of the credit is more than the amount you owe, the CRA does not issue a refund for the difference.

If you need a copy of your Form T2201 or completed clarification letter

- Call the CRA at 1-800-959-8281 or
- Send your request through "Submit documents" in My Account, or
- Mail your request to the tax centre shown on this notice. Include your social insurance number

If you have questions about our decision

You can call 1-800-959-8281 (for calls from Canada and the United States) or 613-940-8495 (for calls from anywhere else). For Northern Service Centres in Yukon, Northwest Territories and Nunavut (area code 867), call 1-866-426-1527. We accept collect calls. If you use a teletypewriter, call 1-800-665-0354.

To appoint a legal representative

- Send a copy of the legal documents giving the authority to the legal representative to your CRA tax centre.

For more information on becoming a legal representative, go to canada.ca/taxes-authorize-representative or call the CRA at 1-800-959-8281.
